

HOW'S THE MARKET? | December 2018

Homes prices ended 2018 with a moderate 3% increase over 2017, more weeks of inventory and a higher number days on the market. Listings and under contract properties were down compared to November, as we normally see slower sales activity in December. It's still a seller's market, and January should bring a rush of new inventory and activity to the Metro area.
